

MEISTER QUOTE TRANSCRIPTION-

32:20- “They will go fishing for unscrupulous psychologists or schools to get John or Jane an accommodation because they want it, but maybe not because they need it.”

32:57- “I do not believe that the SAT or ACT are doing nearly a good enough job as a gatekeeper any longer like they used to as to.” (Corrected in piece for missteps in speech and stumbling.)

33:32- “It used to be the case that the ACT was very strict with requiring documentation and therefore they weren’t getting as many requests for accommodations. They were criticized and they’ve now flipped in the opposite direction where I feel like they’re a little bit too maybe liberal, not in a political sense, but their maybe too willing and the SAT I’d say has always been a little too willing to grant accommodations to people who can create a back story that may not actually be in line with reality.”
